In the industrial quarter, American Smelting and American Car and Foun-United States Steel stocks, while again active, moved within very narrow limits. Sugar Refining was steady fractionally above yesterday's final figures.

The local traction stocks were again strong and active, particularly for Man-hattan Railway. To some extent, the expectations that the exceedingly heavy interest payments of the first of July would lead to the usual anticipatory demand for securities of an investment

Another amatter which perhaps had something to do with the strength of the market was ter that there may be good investments in stocks between now and July 1, to anticipate the dividend and interest disbursements. Investors nearly always make their purchases before the disbursements have been paid, if they intend to make any. As to this theory, however, it is well not to base too much faith in it as the price of stocks generally is already so high that investors may decide not to make any purchases this control of the cide not to make any purchases this control of the cide not to make any purchases this control of the cide not to make any purchases this control of the cide not to make any purchases this control of the cide not to make any purchases the control of the cide not to make any purchases the control of the cide not to make any purchases the control of the cide not to make any purchases the cide not to be cide not to be cide not to be cide not to make any purchases the cide not to be cide not to make any purchases this year.

All of these recurities had large ad vances and all seemed to be bought for important interests. Tennessee Coal and Iron went higher than it did in the last advance, reaching about to 65 before noon. Colorado Fuel and Iron quickly advanced again to 115, the price reached by it before the break yesterday. The Car Foundry securities were both advanced sharply, the common nearly to 55. The Street naturally infers from this sudden activity in the group that plans of some kind for the betterment of the position of the independent steel and iron companies are in contemplation. How far these plans have gone and what is their nature is still entirely a mystery. Times When Egyptians Indulged in Curious Worship.

Their Temples Built in Honor of Serpents, Bulls, and Cats-Sarco. phaguses of the Divine Apis Within the Shadows of the Pyramids.

Visitors to the British Museum, inspect ing the antiquities in the Egyptian rooms, are much interested in the array of cat mummies in one of the wall cases. Won der is often expressed why cats and crocodiles should have been embalmed and why the gods of Egypt should have various animal heads, such as the lion, the jackal, the ibis, and the hawk. It seems so in considering how advanced the Egyptians were in civilization and culture. could build temples, erect massive obe lisks and carry out great engineering works. There are sculptured figures in the museum which date from 3500 B. C. There are manufactured articles and specimens of writing probably a thousand years older than that. This ancient people possessed an ingenious form of hiero-glyphic writing in which a feather was the letter A and a lion the letter L. But a feather was also the emblem of truth, and all the letters had been emblems symbols of things and qualities.

Does it not occur to us that perhaps the animal heads were symbolic also and the cats and crocodiles were embalmed because of their sacred significance? The Egyptians were not fools, and we must ot laugh at their worship of the cat without seeking to understand it.

Trees, serpents, and other things had a place in the religious symbolism of the Egyptians. The persea tree seems to

The monastery is the possessor of a relic of the body of the saint and this was borne in the procession in a monstrance, held by Father Godfry. The march concluded at the foot of the shrine and Father William ascended the pulpit and delivered the sermon.

"Wherever you look, whatever saint's picture you may see," he said, "you will always notice in it a lifty. And that is because a lifty remeasure it is that are. In great cat," connected with this tree. In the seventeenth chapter of the "Book of the Dead" the cat is explained to be Rahimself, the chief god. A serpent was often carried in long mystical procession, and in some of the pictures a cat is represented in the act of cutting off its head. Along with the ass, the cat is called a Sayer of great words in the Hall of the Two Truths.

These instances are enough to show that.
